

Berlin Hyp AG

Update

Key Rating Drivers

Support Drives IDRs: Berlin Hyp AG's Issuer Default Ratings (IDRs) and Shareholder Support Rating (SSR) are aligned with the IDRs of its owner, Landesbank Baden-Wuerttemberg (LBBW; A-/Stable/F1) to reflect Fitch Ratings' view that LBBW would have the ability and a very high propensity to support Berlin Hyp if needed. We believe LBBW's reputation would be greatly damaged if, as Berlin Hyp's owner, it failed to provide support. The Stable Outlook on Berlin Hyp's Long-Term IDR mirrors that on its parent.

LBBW acquired 100% of Berlin Hyp in July 2022 and considers the bank as a central pillar of its commercial real estate (CRE) strategy. We expect integration to intensify over time, although Berlin Hyp currently retains some management independence.

Specialist CRE Lender: Berlin Hyp's Viability Rating (VR) reflects its business model specialisation on CRE lending, conservative risk profile, good asset quality, as well as adequate profitability and capitalisation. The VR also factors in Berlin Hyp's integration into the savings banks organisation (Sparkassen-Finanzgruppe; SFG; A+/Stable/F1+), which enhances its loan origination potential and supports its liquidity and funding profile.

Focus on Core Domestic CRE: Berlin Hyp's lending mix is focused on investment and development financings – mainly in German metropolitan areas and larger cities, where it has expertise. The risk/return profile of the loans originated in recent years appears reasonable and consistent over time, despite the intense competition.

Robust Asset Quality: Berlin Hyp's focus on CRE lending with inherently high single-borrower concentration constrains our asset quality assessment. We expect Berlin Hyp's gross impaired loans ratio to increase to up to 2% in the medium term (2022: 0.5%) due to increased refinancing risks and falling market valuations.

Resilient Profitability: We expect the bank's four-year average operating profit/risk-weighted assets (RWAs) ratio to remain at 1.0%–1.5% through the cycle. Profitability could temporarily fall below this level in the coming quarters as rising interest rates weaken loan demand and loan impairment charges (LICs) are likely to increase, which might be only partially offset by higher net interest margins.

Adequate Capital: Berlin Hyp's common equity Tier 1 (CET1) ratio (end-2022: 13.7%) is adequate for the bank's risk profile and provides a reasonable buffer over regulatory requirements. Berlin Hyp is likely to continue to retain parts of its profits to match RWA inflation from the implementation of the Basel III output floor.

Sound Funding and Liquidity Profile: Berlin Hyp is wholesale-funded, mostly through mortgage Pfandbriefe and unsecured debt. Due to Berlin Hyp's membership in SFG's institutional protection scheme, investments by SFG's members in the bank's unsecured debt benefit from a 0% regulatory risk weight. This ensures privileged access to SFG's large pool of excess liquidity.

Rating Sensitivities

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Negative Rating Action/Downgrade

A downgrade of LBBW's IDRs, or a change in the ownership structure or the owner's strategic commitment to Berlin Hyp, could lead to a downgrade of its IDRs and SSR.

Berlin Hyp's VR has moderate headroom in the event of downside risks to our forecast. We could downgrade the VR if we expect severe and sustained pressure on the performance of the CRE market to durably weaken the bank's impaired loans and operating profit/RWAs ratios to above 3.0% and below 0.8%, respectively.

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Positive Rating Action/Upgrade

An upgrade of the IDRs and SSR would require an upgrade of LBBW's ratings.

An upgrade of Berlin Hyp's VR would require a record of substantially stronger lending margins and a more diversified business model, with significant revenue sources independent from CRE lending. Fitch would limit the upgrade of the VR of Berlin Hyp to one notch above its parent's VR, because we view both banks' credit profiles as highly correlated.

Other Debt and Issuer Ratings

Rating level	Rating
Long-term deposits	A
Short-term deposits	F1
Long-term senior preferred debt	A
Short-term senior preferred debt	F1
Senior non-preferred: long term	A-

Source: Fitch Ratings

Berlin Hyp's long-term senior preferred debt and deposit ratings are one notch above its Long-Term IDR due to its large buffer of senior non-preferred (SNP) debt, equivalent to about 35% of the bank's RWAs at end-2022. We expect Berlin Hyp to become part of LBBW's single-point-of-entry resolution perimeter.

Berlin Hyp's short-term senior preferred debt and deposit ratings are the baseline options that map to the 'A' Long-Term ratings and are in line with LBBW's ratings.

Significant Changes from Last Review

Falling Market Valuations and Higher Interest Rates Increase Refinancing Risks

Although German real estate valuations have steadily increased since 2010, market values started declining in 2022 following the ECB's interest rate increases. Residential CRE and office values declined by 4% in 2H22, and retail property values fell by 8%, according to the Association of German Pfandbrief Banks. Fitch believes prices could fall significantly further given the increase in interest rates, in particular for older properties. At the same time, refinancing risks are increasing. However, this should not result in outsized credit losses for German banks, at least in the near term, due to adequate collateralisation, long average maturities and predominantly fixed-rate loans in domestic CRE portfolios.

Most German banks, unlike those in many other jurisdictions, adjust valuations downward to the 'mortgage lending value' at origination so as to strip out cyclical valuation swings for assets to be eligible for covered bond financing. The adjustments can be material and a reason why German banks often report higher loan-to-value (LTV) ratios.

Remote working could also pressure the valuations and rents of office properties, but vacancy rates in this segment remained relatively low in 2022 (less than 5% according to Bundesbank data).

Resilient Performance in 2022

New business volumes in 2022 remained stable yoy at EUR6.9 billion (2021: EUR7.1 billion) despite a sharp drop in German CRE transaction volumes to EUR65 billion in 2022 (2021: EUR112 billion). The financing of office properties, mainly in Germany, accounted for over half of new business. We expect new business to decline significantly in 2023 and 2024.

Gross loans increased by about 7% in 2022. In combination with a higher interest margin, this led to the aggregated net interest income for 2022 increasing by 12% to EUR456 million, including EUR70 million interest income from central bank tenders (TLTRO, 2021: EUR89 million), which will not recur in 2023.

Operating expenses also increased 12% to EUR207 million in 2022, mainly driven by higher bank levies, as well as by costs for integrating Berlin Hyp into LBBW and for digitalising the lending process.

While LICs remained low in 2022 on the back of a broadly stable impaired loans ratio, the bank booked EUR100 million valuation losses on its liquidity portfolio due to higher interest rates. As a result, Berlin Hyp's operating profit declined 25% to EUR175 million in 2022.

Berlin Hyp's capital ratios slightly declined at end-2022 due to an 8% increase in risk-weighted assets.

Berlin Hyp's EUR18.4 billion outstanding covered bonds covered 65% of its external funding needs at end-2022. They are issued to a diversified investor base and are maturity-matched to the mortgage loans. The remaining funding was mostly covered with senior unsecured bonds with a comfortable maturity profile.

Berlin Hyp repaid EUR6 billion TLTRO at end-2022, which temporarily wiped out nearly its entire cash pool. However, the liquidity coverage ratio remained sound at 125%, underpinned by the bank's high-quality bond portfolio of EUR5.6 billion. The latter covers more than half of Berlin Hyp's liabilities due in 2023 and consists predominantly of covered bonds (44%) and government bonds (29%). Senior unsecured bonds (including corporates) account for a moderate 9% of the liquidity portfolio.

Credit-Relevant ESG Derivation

Berlin Hyp AG has 5 ESG potential rating drivers

- ➔ Berlin Hyp AG has exposure to compliance risks including fair lending practices, mis-selling, repossession/foreclosure practices, consumer data protection (data security) but this has very low impact on the rating.
- ➔ Governance is minimally relevant to the rating and is not currently a driver.

ESG scores range from 1 to 5 based on a 15-level color gradation. Red (5) is most relevant and green (1) is least relevant.

The Environmental (E), Social (S) and Governance (G) tables break out the individual components of the scale. The right-hand box shows the aggregate E, S, or G score. General Issues are relevant across all markets with Sector-Specific Issues unique to a particular industry group. Scores are assigned to each sector-specific issue. These scores signify the credit-relevance of the sector-specific issues to the issuing entity's overall credit rating. The Reference box highlights the factor(s) within which the corresponding ESG issues are captured in Fitch's credit analysis.

The Credit-Relevant ESG Derivation table shows the overall ESG score. This score signifies the credit relevance of combined E, S and G issues to the entity's credit rating. The three columns to the left of the overall ESG score summarize the issuing entity's sub-component ESG scores. The box on the far left identifies some of the main ESG issues that are drivers or potential drivers of the issuing entity's credit rating (corresponding with scores of 3, 4 or 5) and provides a brief explanation for the score.

CREDIT-RELEVANT ESG SCALE
How relevant are E, S and G issues to the overall credit rating?
5	Highly relevant, a key rating driver that has a significant impact on the rating on an individual basis. Equivalent to "higher" relative importance within Navigator.
4	Relevant to rating, not a key rating driver but has an impact on the rating in combination with other factors. Equivalent to "moderate" relative importance within Navigator.
3	Minimally relevant to rating, either very low impact or actively managed in a way that results in no impact on the entity rating. Equivalent to "lower" relative importance within Navigator.
2	Irrelevant to the entity rating but relevant to the sector.
1	Irrelevant to the entity rating and irrelevant to the sector.

Unless otherwise disclosed in this section, the highest level of ESG credit relevance is a score of '3'. This means ESG issues are credit neutral or have only a minimal credit impact on the entity, either due to their nature or the way in which they are being managed by the entity.
